DEAD MAN MAY BE SCHWARTZ

100 MINERS HURT IN STRIKE RIOT

CLASH WITH POLICE CAUSES APPEAL FOR ROYAL TROOPS

POLITICAL ROW IN LONDON FOLLOWS DEVELOPMENT OF CRISIS IN WELSH COAL FIELDS—LLOYD
GEORGE IN DEBATE

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Authorities of Ammanford, Wales, where threatened strike conditions have been going from bad to worse in the anthracite district ever since the differences between the operators and the miners became acute, today appealed to the government to send troops to the district to prevent further disturbances.

A final checkup of the casualties in the Ammanford riots showed that 105 miners and twelve police had been injured.

By a strange coincidence the receipt of the appeal for soldiers to put down the growing disorders in the Welsh fields was received just before Prime Minister Baldwin rose in the House of Commons to defend his course last week in offering a subsidy to the coal operators as the price of an armistice in the wage struggle between operators and miners.

Pickford Suit Called a Huge Theft of Glory

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Further testimony in support of the defense contention that the whole Mary Pickford kidnapping case was nothing but a publicity scheme was given at today's session of the trial of Charles Stephens, Claude Holcomb and Adrian Wood on charges of plotting to carry off the film star and hold her for $200,000 ransom.

In outlining its publicity plot attack in an opening statement, the defense made it clear that Mary Pickford was not involved as a publicity plotter.

The men who plotted for prominent mention in the news of the day, counsel explained, were George K. Home, former chief of detectives in the Los Angeles police department and Harry Raymond, a private detective, who planned the kidnapping case "for the purpose of reeking glory on themselves," and selected Mary Pickford because of the publicity value of her name.

Local members of Berkeley council, Knights of Columbus, will entertain with an entertainment in Memorial hall on next Monday evening. Al Paulsen, former Orpheum circuit artist, will feature the program in a handwriting comedy stunt. Refreshments will be served.

Monthly inspection drill of the Richmond police will take place Saturday, August 15. It was announced yesterday by Police Chief Dan Cox.

The distinction of being the first woman to see Niagara Falls by plane goes to Lady Haig, wife of the British Field Marshal. The photograph shows Lady Haig in the cockpit ready for flight.

CROSSING PERIL AROUSES IRE OF COUNTY CHIEFS

Railroad Commission Will Be Asked To Investigate
Dangers

MARTINEZ, Aug. 6.—Seeking to make safer the grade crossing of the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and San Francisco and Sacramento line tracks at Bay Point, the Board of Supervisors instructed District Attorney A. B. Tinning to communicate at once with the Railroad Commission to ask the aid and support of that body in protecting the lives and safety of motorists.

On account of the condition of the land at that point a subway is not feasible, neither is it practicable to build an overhead crossing. The authorities of Contra Costa believe that an order from the Railroad Commission calling for one or two permanent flagmen and possible guard gates at that point will remedy the situation.

NEW WHARF PLANS ARE BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

Completion of the dredging of the inner harbor channel in front of the proposed new wharf at the foot of Tenth street, will be accomplished tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by City Engineer E. A. Hoffman.

The San Francisco Bridge company has been dredging the channel for the past two weeks. A depth of over 23 feet has already been dredged in the shallows, it was announced.

With the completion of the work on the channel, construction can now start on the new wharf. The city council is now considering plans and specifications for the unit.

MOOSE DEBATE PLACE OF APE IN EVOLUTION

Fraters Fight Ferociously Over
Ancestry and Then Part
Good Friends

"Is Monkey the Ancestor of Man?" This is the topic that brought forth heated arguments by the members of Moose lodge, after the regular business meeting held in Moose hall last night.

Charles F. Donnelly was the official judge. After the arguments of both sides had been placed before him and he has viewed the evidence in the case from the arguments presented alone, it was his decision that the affirmative in the debate was the victor.

It has been decided to hold a similar debate each week after the lodge session. Donnelly will be the judge at all times and his decision will be final. He stated last night that he has arranged an interesting subject for next Thursday night. He would not divulge what the topic would be, however, as the speeches of the debaters are to be extemporaneous.

Dictator William Vossbeck presided over the business session, during which only routine matters were discussed.

PROPERTY OWNERS SIGN PETITION FOR LIGHTS

Petitions circulated by E. H. Kuefner, realty operator and property owner, asking the city council to install electrolights on some of the cross streets of the city, are being signed by many property owners.

The city council at its next meeting will formally be asked to install an electrolight lighting system on Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth streets, between Nevin and Macdonald avenue.

ATTORNEY FINDS SAME HAIR ON BODY AND SCHWARTZ' COMB

UNIVERSITY EXPERT DENIES SIMILARITY IN HAIR SAID BY MRS. SCHWARTZ' ATTORNEY TO IDENTIFY THE DEAD BODY

OAKLAND, Aug. 6.—Solution of the week-old mystery at Walnut Creek will not be reached until further scientific examination of the case is made. This was indicated today following contradictory findings of scientists interested in the mystery.

Attorney Edward S. Bell, counsel for Mrs. Schwartz, wife of Charles Schwartz, who is sought in connection with the case, announced today that the hair on the head of the dead man tallied identically with hair found in the comb and brush of Schwartz.

In direct contrast to this report is that of Dr. Albert Schneider, of Northwestern University, who stated that hair found in the comb and brush of the former German war spy widely differed from that on the corpse.

Wireless was brought into use today for the first time since the start of the investigation when the Oakland police department sent a radiogram to the captain of the steamer Nordic, on which Schwartz is believed to have taken passage, asking him to make a thorough search for the stowaway.

Revelation that Schwartz might have attempted a murder insurance hoax was made today when officials of a local insurance company reported that the Oakland inventor had tried to take out a policy for $100,000 some time ago. The policy is said to have been denied him when he refused to answer satisfactorily the customary questions asked prior to issuance of a policy.

MARTINEZ, Aug. 6.—District Attorney A. B. Tinning announced this evening that the grand jury will be summoned in special session in Martinez early next week to hear the evidence in the Schwartz murder case.

TAXES MUST COME DOWN

There will be a general agreement with Judge Elbert H. Gary's declaration before the American Iron and Steel institute regarding taxes. "They are much too high," he said, "whether levied by national, state, municipal or, in fact, any public organization possessing the power to levy and collect taxes."

That statement cannot be successfully challenged, but what is being done to lighten the burden? Here we have a paradox. The federal government, which bears most lightly upon the taxpayer, is steadily reducing taxes, while the state and local governments, which bear most heavily upon their supporters, are increasing their taxes by leaps and bounds.

The paradox is made the more peculiar by the fact that the states in which the cry for lower federal taxes is the loudest are the very ones in which other taxes are being most rapidly increased.

It is not the states but the cities and counties which are the chief offenders against the budget has virtually doubled economy. In these political subdivisions in the last seven years having risen from slightly over $200,000,000 to $400,000,000. The tax rate itself is a few points lower for the present budget than for the last one, but this reduction was made possible by an immense increase in the assessments which form the basis for the rate. Consequently the total tax and the burden on the individual are in reality the largest they have ever been.

No objection can be urged against increases which are necessitated by general advances as is demanded by enlightened ideas of progress. But untold millions are squandered either upon enterprises which ought never to have been undertaken or by extravagant methods of carrying on the public business. Every city or county has some kind of parallel to our Staten Island piers or our fleet of limousines for city officials or our letting of contracts without bids.

The fierce light that beats upon the capitol at Washington is not turned upon the government nearer home. The result is—what it is. Taxes are coming down at Washington and going up everywhere else.

This process cannot continue indefinitely. Sooner or later taxpayers will have to insist that the principles which are accomplishing so much for the federal government be applied to state and local governments.

There will be no better time for beginning this movement than right now.—New York Post.

IT DIDN'T PAY

Word comes from Europe to the effect that the British government is sounding out the French authorities on the suggestion that both nations sever diplomatic relations with the soviet government. It is now considered possible that the two countries may break off official communications with Moscow in the not distant future.

The situation is rather delicate in France owing to the fact that the left wing of the government, which brought about soviet recognition, might make trouble for the French government just now were the Russian ambassador to be given his walking papers. Great Britain is said, is becoming pretty well convinced that in recognizing the bolshevik government she admitted a Tarter into the household, and it is believed in London that any swing of the French government to the right would result in an agreement on the part of France and Great Britain to get out from under the ill starred Russian recognition.

British coolness toward Moscow is steadily growing, it is said, because the British now believe that the reds are responsible for most of the trouble in the British Asiatic colonies and also for the anti-British feeling in China. France, while not so great a colonial nation as Britain, knows what the red agents have done among the Ruffs and the thinking statesmen at Paris are beginning to see that a serious mistake was made in recognizing the soviet government and so permitting the influx of red agents into the country.

Recently M. Zinovieff boasted that the war in Africa and the trouble in Asia were but the beginnings of world revolution. Evidently America has done well to keep hands off the reds.

VOX POPULI, VOX DEI

It seems to me Upton Sinclair is hard to satisfy. He rebelled because publishers would not bring out his books and begin publishing them himself. Now he confesses he is stranded and begs his readers to come to his rescue. Has he not himself demonstrated that publishers were right in rejecting his books, since they cannot be published at a profit? If the voice of the people is the voice of God, a decision has been given in the Upton Sinclair case; which is that he should quit writing.—E. W. Howell Monthly.

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

DRESS By MARY MARSHALL

Rainy Days at the French Races
This Summer Set the Fashion for Smart Rain Clothes.

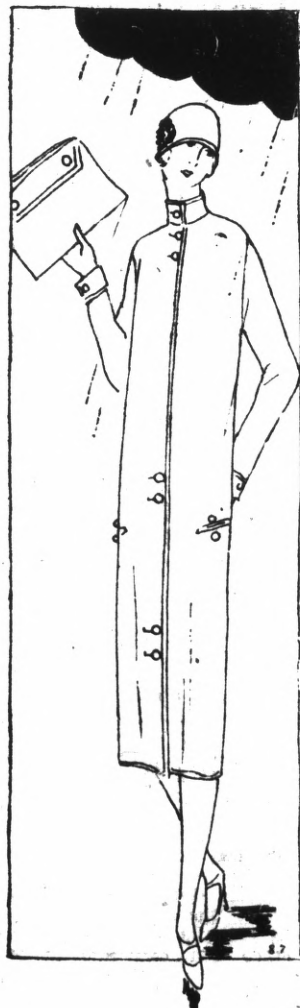

AN ENGLISH woman said recently that a really fashionable Parisian would as soon eat porridge for breakfast as she would wear a mackintosh on a rainy day. Of course, there are French women who wear mackintoshes and French women who carry umbrellas, but they are not the women we have in mind, when we go across the Atlantic for fashion inspirations.

Gradually American women, of all classes, seemingly, are becoming as averse to umbrellas and raincoats and the rubbers to which they used to be wedded as are the smart women of Paris. In our suburbs and country districts automobiles have made traveling about on rainy days a rare pastime. Cooks and plumbers go to work in sedans nowadays, and it is far more apt to be the minister who goes afoot in the rain than the wife of the butcher or banker. In the city on a showery day, who wears rubbers and carries a raincoat? Surely not the little working girl who has to take chances with the weather! She scurries along under der the eaves and awnings of the buildings, darts through corridors of office buildings and arcades of hotels and seems to know how to reach her subway line entirely under cover.

In Paris it seems to be only the really smart woman who contrives to be so independent of climatic conditions. She refuses to consider the possibility of rain. She never walks when she can motor and for her convenience were first contrived those stately-looking flunkies carrying enormous parasols who stand at the entrances of hotels and smart shops. We have them here in America, of course, but the idea is of French origin.

Perhaps the only place where French women do allow themselves to be rained upon is at the races. This summer when it rained at one of the smartest races of the season French women appeared in smart raincoats of most vivid colors. All in England for some reason or other rainy-day clothes still seem to occupy an important position in the wardrobe. The careful woman sees to it that she has two raincoats in good condition, one for town and one for country, and even the Queen and the Princess Mary carry umbrellas even when the sun shines.

Kedgeree with Tomatoes: Half a lb. of boiled left over fish, one pound of tomatoes, two ounces of rice, 2 tablespoons of butter, one half cup of white stock, one half cup milk, half a lemon, salt and pepper.

The water that the fish was boiled in can be used for stock. Put it in a saucepan—a double one is best—with the rice, milk, and a pinch of salt. Simmer until the rice has swollen soft and absorbed the liquid. Stir in half an ounce of the butter, a good seasoning of salt and pepper, and the fish freed from skin and bone and finely flaked. Cut up half a pound of the tomatoes, and put them in a small saucepan with the remaining butter and a little pepper and salt. Simmer until the tomatoes are quite soft, then rub through a sieve and return to the saucepan to reheat. Cut the remaining tomatoes in slices, and just fry them slightly in a little fat. Pile the kedgeree on a hot dish, pour the sauce round, and garnish with the fried tomatoes and cut lemon.

Mushrooms Stewed in Gravy: Remove nearly all of the stalks from a pint of mushrooms; peel the tops; put them into a stewpan with a pint of good brown gravy. Simmer half an hour; add a seasoning of sayenne salt and a dash of nutmeg, simmer a few minutes, and serve hot.

Blanquette of Veal: Put 4 tablespoons of butter in a stew pan, and when hot stir into it one heaped dessert-spoonful of flour. Mix to a perfectly smooth paste, then gradually add a half pint of white stock. Stir briskly until it thickens, remove from heat, and add two or three small onions, a tiny pinch of mace, a bouquet of sprigs parsley, thyme, etc., tied together with white cotton, and seasoning of pepper and salt.

Bring again to the boil and immediately add the veal cut into neat pieces. Cover very tightly, and simmer quite gently for one hour. In the meantime beat up the yolk of an egg with half a teaspoonful of vinegar. Dish the meat, and keep it hot while you run the gravy through a colander and return it to the saucepan. Put one tablespoonful of it with the yolk of the egg, beat it briskly and then stir gradually into the saucepan of gravy pour it over the meat.

THE LIMITED MAIL by ELMER E. VANCE

"THE LIMITED MAIL" by Monte Blue, is a dramatization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Wilson, a young tramp, has saved the Limited from disaster on a trestle in Granite Gorge, and has ridden into Crater City with Jim Fowler, the mail clerk. At the station the conductor hands him a purse which has been raised by the passengers as a thank offering. He refuses to accept it for himself but tosses it to Potts and Spike, fellow-vagabonds. Then he accompanies Fowler to his home. Jim is happy and excited, for he expects to find that he has become a father.

wise in such crises, or of the woman, who held in her arms the restless, wriggling, living cost of the sacrifice. The doctor said at length: "He must break, and cry—or he, too, will go."

The silence became so oppressive that the slow and tense breathing of the four adults, the fretting of the newborn, the unduly hurried ticking of a mantel clock somewhere, the rasping whisper of the gas-jet, and, like a mourner's dirge, the vague murmurings of the shut-out tempest only seemed to make it more tangibly real and intense; it was a breathing, curiously alert silence.

No one paid any attention to Bob, who softly closed the door behind him, then leaned inconspicuously against it—his feeling of intrusion changed, unaccountably, to one of apprehension.

Jim did not look at the infant long. He cast a loving glance toward the doorway of a darkened adjoining room, then whirled joyously upon the Doctor and framed the question that was uppermost in his heart.

"And—my wife—"

The doctor snapped his bag soberly. Bob, watching, saw the midwife, Mrs. O'Leary, clutch the baby close to her in a scared way; saw the minister wet his lips. The Doctor, in whose face were the lines and the cares of hard fights and harder responsibilities, conceived words that his voice failed to bear; then seemed to expect that the testimony of his face would serve beyond the need of speech.

But Jim, in a sudden frenzy, caught hold of him and shook him. "My boy," the Doctor forced himself to say in an awkwardly flat and tired voice, "your wife is dead!"

Bob was barely quick enough to snatch the infant from its peril.

The Doctor, with the kindly ignorance and blundering psychology of his class, to whom grief is a generic thing, to be met and humored and broken thus and so, said, "Come, Jim," slipping an arm around the young man's shoulders with the fatherly license of a life-long healer and friend, "come—my boy—"

Then adding lamely, inwardly baffled by the insufficiency of his power of suggestion, "It can't be helped—there's nothing to be done. Cry, now—have a good cry—it will do you good!"

Jim did not even know to shake the restraining arm off. He merely walked unheeding, from under it.

The minister stepped after him with gingerly softness, and said monotonously, "Why not try prayer, my son—seek your comfort and solace in the final hope of all those who grieve—"

Jim shook the minister's blue-white hands off as though they were sticky caterpillars.

"Go to hell!" he said in a low, thin tone, and walked on, as if he had neither heard nor spoken. To Bob, as a disinterested observer, it appeared that the minister's quick discomfiture grew out of ruffled pride in his own sense of weakness, rather than sympathetic feeling for Jim.

Bob felt himself an audience to a shadow drama. Here was life bared to its essentials; here was a tiny hinterland parlor transformed into a tragic stage.

Last, urged by instincts developed in the lore and tradition of her sex that told her the canny thing to do in such a case, Mrs. O'Leary imposed her maternally bled in Jim's way and held out to him his newborn.

"Take the little one, Jimmy—"

she said tremulously. Jim automatically received the infant into his outstretched hands, and a concerted sigh announced the belief of the professional watchers that success for Jim was at hand. Bob, however, seeing in Jim's face a dull insensibility of what he was doing, was not fooled. It was well that he had not been, for with the others temporarily off guard there would have been a hideous ante-climax to the tragedy.

For Jim, with a sudden snatched curse as he realized that he was holding the baby—the hateful price of a faded rose—raised it to dash it to the floor. Bob was barely quick enough to snatch the infant from its peril.

Then Jim, with a dry, insane laugh that raised brittle echoes in the room, disappeared out into the night.

"He must be followed," cried the Doctor, "or he may harm himself!"

"He must!" agreed the robust minister.

Bob pushed the infant back against the ample bosom of Mrs. O'Leary.

"I was thinking of that," he said quietly to the Doctor. "I'll take care of him!"

Miss Helen May of Henderson, Tex., a graduate of Teachers College, Columbia University, has sailed for Alexandropol, Armenia, to bring back smiles to the faces of the orphan wards of the Near East Relief. Alexandropol is the chief station of the Near East Relief in Armenia and the majority of the 12,000 children in that tiny republic who are being cared for by the relief organization are located there.

NEWSPAPER AD PRAISED AS GREAT WEAPON

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—Good advertising especially newspaper advertising, is the greatest weapon of the retail merchant in eliminating the house to house canvasser, T. K. Kelley of Minneapolis told the American Retailers' Association on in semi-annual session here.

"The bell ringer," he said, "is selling thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise in each community in the country that should be sold through the established retail stores."

Referring to the remedy of newspaper advertising, he said:

"It has become the habit of the American people to do virtually all their shopping through the newspapers and the newspapers in America today have too great an economic force to need any recommendation."

Ambassador To China Laid At Rest

(By Universal Service)

TOKIO, Aug. 6.—A priest escorted by a full division of Imperial guard the body of American Ambassador Edward Addison Bancroft was taken through the streets of Tokyo yesterday. The body arrived from Karuzawa at 1:35 p. m. and was taken to St. Andrews church where funeral services were held.

Thousands thronged the sidewalks to get a glimpse of the funeral procession as it threaded its way through the streets from the station to the church.

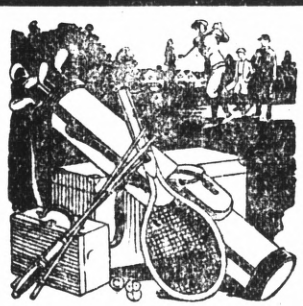

At the railway station the body was conveyed through the entrance usually only used by the Emperor. The body was placed in a coffin which was attended by Premier Kato and other cabinet members.

Doctor Cleveland McAlister of the McCormick Theological Seminary of Chicago delivered the sermon. He said that the Chinese trusted Ambassador Bancroft because he did not wear a mask and was always fair in his dealings with them.

The body reached Yokohama at 2 p. m. and was immediately conveyed by naval guard to the cruiser Tama, which is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco August 22.

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON WIN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston, "Big Bill" and "Little Bill" of American lawn tennis—today became the nation's prospective Davis Cup defense doubles team by scoring over Vincent Richards and R. Norris Williams in the third and final match of their series, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

The sensational tennis played by the quartet in the two preceding matches lapped over into today's struggle, with Johnston and Richards dominating the play on their respective sides. With Williams uncertain, it remained for Richards to carry the fight into four vigorously contested sets.

Matching Richards' play with strokes that took his gallery back to the Davis cup events of 1920, 1921 and 1923, the little Californian rose to the very peak of his game and lifted the two Bills out of a first set rout to an impressive triumph in the final three.

The victory gave Tilden and Johnston, two matches out of three, Richards and Williams having won the second match of the series on Tuesday.

DOPESTERS ARE FIGURING DAVE FOR SURE WIN

Dave Shade's phenomenal showing at the Olympic Club yesterday has caused the "sharpshooters" to install him a 10 to 6 favorite over Frankie Schoell of Buffalo, N. Y., when they collide at the San Francisco baseball park tomorrow night for the right to tackle Mickey Walker.

It's almost a moral cinch that Shade will enter the ring at least a 2 to 1 favorite, wisecracker claim.

Those who saw the welterweight member of the "Three Fighting Shades" defeat Jimmy Duffy at the Oakland baseball park one sunny day last September would not have recognized him had they seen him wallowing Paddy Mills in the Olympic Club gymnasium yesterday at noon.

On Tuesday and Wednesday Dave should the boys a plenty, but yesterday's showing was beyond all expectations.

No doubt Shade's egotistical way has done more than anything else to place him to the fore. Shade has more confidence in himself than Dempsey, and that's saying a lot. He believes that he is the best fighter in the world since he disposed of Jimmy Slattery and has his mind made up that no one in the world can trounce him. With this idea in his head—and Dave is very set in his way—Schoell is going to have his hands full tomorrow evening.

SHOWS SOME SPEED

Don't be Alarmed About Kidney symptoms—Just do this

Do this when the kidneys seem upset. When you feel pain in the back, have highly-colored urine or frequent urination. Learn if the kidneys are not merely congested, just as the bowels often are. Give them acid, and watch results. Drink plenty of water. Drink a glass or two before breakfast. To the morning glass add a little Jad Salts. That will give you a sparkling drink. Jad Salts is made from acids of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia. It is to aid both kidneys and bowels.

Attorney Finds

the evidence while fresh in the minds of witnesses and to secure an indictment by means of which Schwartz extradition can be more easily accomplished if he is caught in a foreign country.

MARTINEZ, Aug. 6.—Sheriff Veale was advised today that a man answering in minute detail the description broadcasted of Schwartz and carrying two suit cases was seen Wednesday to board the Swedish freighter Nordic in Oakland and is now en route to Portland, Ore., due to arrive in the northern city tonight or tomorrow.

MARTINEZ, Aug. 6.—Sheriff R. R. Veale announced today, just prior to leaving for Oakland to investigate further clues as to the identity of the dead man that he personally offered a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Schwartz.

In addition to this offer on the part of the sheriff, Kallise Co., announced an offer of a reward of $500 for like information. It is probable that Governor Richardson will be impetioned to throw the support of the state into the search for Schwartz through the offer of a substantial reward.

District Attorney A. R. Tinning expected to go to Napa this evening for a conference with Prof. E. O. Heinrich, who is a witness in court there. Heinrich made further investigations in the laboratory of the Walnut Creek plant Wednesday afternoon after which the guards were removed from the building and the plant and offices turned back to the officials of Schwartz' company.

Rex Is Center Of Picture of Untamed Horse

"Black Cyclone," the Hal Roach feature showing today and tomorrow at the California Theatre, is the story of Rex, a wild horse, a flashing black of great power.

He was born in the wild Lands, self-raised and self-taught, for a rattlesnake bite had deprived him of his mother while he was still of tender age. He sought protection in a herd, but its leader, the ferocious Killer, drove him out. He had no place in his herd for an outcast. But there came a day when this untamed young horse was a magnificent powerful creature who defeated the Killer, who had never before known anything but victory!

Rex, who made his film debut in 1924 in "The King of Wild Horses," is said to be an even more magnificent creature in "Black Cyclone," a story which shows his wooing of Lady, a beautiful dappled grey mare. But three people are required to tell the story in "Black Cyclone," and they are Guinn Williams, Kathleen Collins and Christian J. Frank. Among the animals are Rex and Lady; the Killer, one of the craziest-spotted horses ever seen, and the Pest, a burro.

Other screen entertainment on the same program includes "Balto's Race to Nome," the most thrilling race ever filmed in the far North of human courage—of dog courage to save human lives; "Beware," a Mermaid comedy; "International News;" Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Rex Is 'Star' In Photoplay

Beauty Winner Is Featured in Richmond Film

Beauty and comedy are the predominant features of Viola Dana's "Beauty Prize," which is coming today to the Richmond Theatre for a run of two days. The story by Nina Wilcox Putnam has for its heroine a New York manicurist, who is mistaken for a society girl when her mother takes care of a wealthy man's home during the summer.

She enters a beauty contest, and is chosen to represent the state at the national finals. She wins and is about to accept the cash prize, when she decides she has triumphed under false pretenses, and gives the money back. In order to escape the publicity of her act, she steals away to a small town, and nearly starves.

Then occurs a climax said to be the newest thing in climaxes. Pat O'Malley appears opposite the star. Others in the cast include Edward Connelly, Eddie Phillips, Joan Standing, and Edith Yorke. Lloyd Ingraham was the director, while Winifred Dunn did the continuity and John Arnold was the photographer.

Other features on the same program include the fifth, thrilling chapter of "Days of '49," featuring Neva Gerber and Edmund Cobb; "No Fooling," a comedy wow.

Use Sulphur to Heal Your Skin

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declare a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Menthosulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germdestroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Menthosulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Menthosulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

THE DUMBER THE BETTER FOR PANTOMIME ACTORS

By LAURA KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—To catch actors young and train them in art of keeping silent on the stage is the aim of a new international pantomime society just founded by Max Reinhardt, known in America for his "Miracle."

Years ago this Berlin producer won fame in perfecting the pantomime. No words will be wasted in the new organization. All emotions will be expressed by motion—silent motion at that.

"The dumber the better," may be said to be the only requirement for recruits.

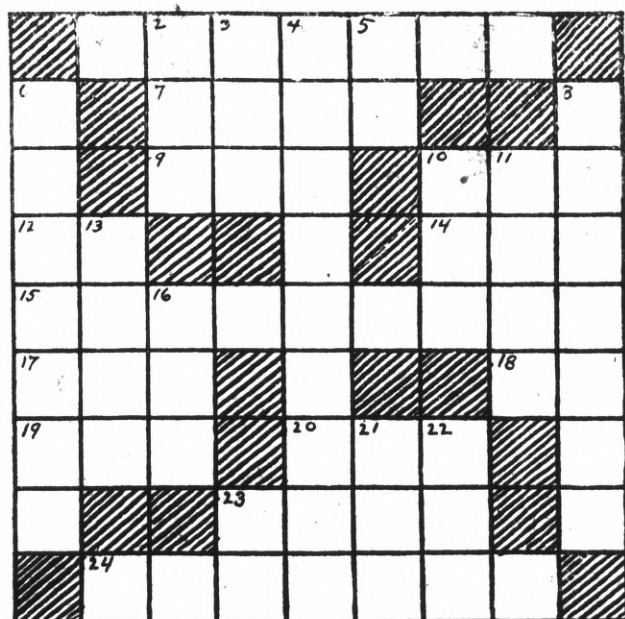

With this experiment it is hoped that by and by a new type of pantomime actor will evolve when the human body as a whole will be able to express a complete scale of feelings by movement and posture.

By eliminating the difficulties of language Reinhardt believes the new venture will open the way to a sort of cultural "league of nations."

Mrs. Oscar T. Griswold of Hanford is visiting here with her granddaughters, the Misses Gertrude and Wilda Wiles of Thirteenth street.

MECHANICS LOSE TO BARREL HOUSE

EIGHTH INNING HOMER BRINGS GAME TO CLOSE

Peters Brings Game to Sudden End With Fourth Hit Of Game

ALLEN ALSO HITS HOMER
Kersten Pitches Good Game But Players Fail To Back Him Up

STANDARD OIL LEAGUE

Barrel House	5	6	451
Mechanics	5	7	418

A home run in the last half of the eighth inning, sent sizzling over right field fence, just a few inches or the proper side of the foul line, by Peters, brought to a most fitting close the conflict between the Barrel House and the Mechanics at First street park last night.

As Fitzgerald was at that time reposing gracefully on first base the game ended with the score standing 4 to 2.

GAME ALWAYS EVEN.
For seven and a half innings the affair was nip and tuck with a single run being made now and again by either side, with no advantage. The Barrel House drew first blood in the second inning. Vianni did the stunt with a double when Peters was on. The Mechanics came right back in their next turn and made their run. The same thing occurred in the fifth, from that time on all was serene till the last of the eighth.

The winning rallies were made after Yore and Nelson had both flied out. Then the mighty Fitzgerald came, to bat. He sent a hot drive to pitchers box, that was far too hot for Kersten to handle. It cracked Jean on the wrist and rolled merrily on its way past second base, too late to catch Fitz. Then Peters strode to the plate and got the longest hit of the day, ending the game amid the loud cheers of the moderately large group of partisan fans. These fans didn't care much to see the Barrel House win, but like all true sportsmen gave Peters a good hand for his feat.

FOUR HITS FOR PETERS.
Peters batted a thousand for the day. The first two trips he singled, then he cracked a double, and the last time was a homer. Allen also got a homer, but it came as a result of the ball bouncing over the fence.

Lefty Cothran did some lovely work in the box. He allowed only five hits, all of them well scattered and damageless, he fanned a half a dozen, and walked two.

Jean didn't do so bad himself. Only eight safe ones were garnered from his wide variety of offerings. He fanned four, but only walked one.

LAMARRA'S OFF DAY.
Lamarra showed some bad form at short in this exhibition. In the fifth inning he muffed two, which directly resulted in a run by Vianni. Daniels, cavorting about second let one of Tod Murray's easy grounders slip between his fingers just as nice as you please. This too resulted in a run.

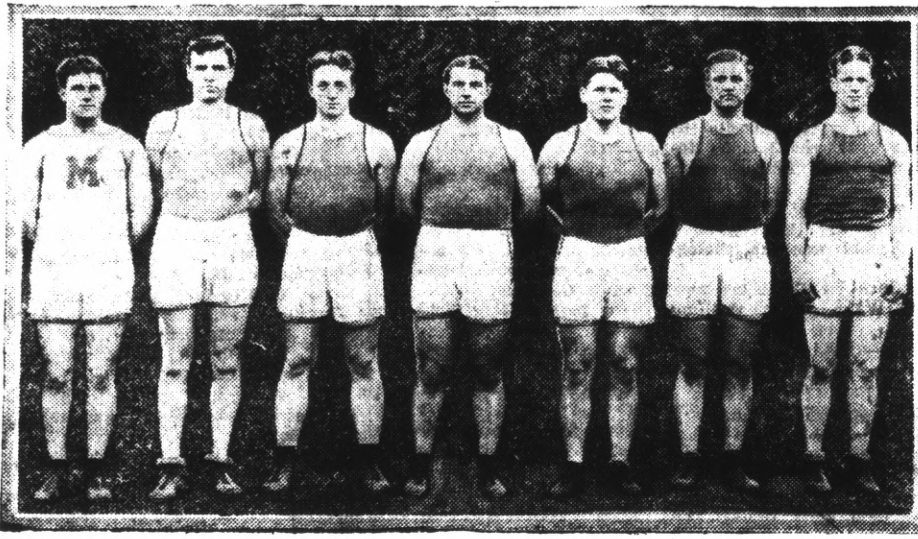

Others who let easy outs drop from their mitts included Schimpff, Yore, and Nelson. As all these boys are playing with the Barrel House no great harm was done by their bungles.

MANAGER WILL SECOND WALKER

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Jack Kearns, manager of two boxing champions came here yesterday to second one and talked much about the other. Mickey Walker, his protege, who heads the pugilists in the welter-weight division will meet Bermondsey Billy Wells at East Chicago, Ind., in a 10-round no-decision match two nights hence.

About that contest Kearns said little except that he would send in the mighty little man to knock out Wells as soon as possible.

About Jack Dempsey and the tangled pugilistic affairs of the heavyweight champion, Kearns talked at length.

Part of his conversation had not died in echo before from the Pacific Coast came Dempsey's polite denial. His former firm friend and manager, whose contract now is held by Dempsey to mean nothing except that Kearns get a cut of any purse for a little while longer, had "been misquoted," Dempsey said.

Kearns, put out here that Dempsey will fight again, will fight under the Kearns management, and will fight Harry Wills, the New York negro.

NEW AUTO HEADQUARTERS HIGHLY PRAISED BY THRONES WHO JAM PLACE TO CONGRATULATE THE ENTERPRISING OWNER

Receiving the congratulations of auto houses. The opinion is received hundreds of friends who thronged all the more significant when his new place of business at the opening last night, Harry Curry, was the proudest man in Richmond. A war, higher class building this summer he noted the admiration of his fellow citizens when they gave their new home of the local Hummels, for salesroom, display windows, and Chrysler agencies the "one over."

Dancing, vaudeville and prizes made the guests pass the time merrily after their tour of inspection. Congratulation satisfied them that Curry has opened one of Richmond's most creditable Wallace Snellgrove.
